

Y7 Geography HT 2: Learning Journey

What are we learning about?

In this unit of work we are going to look at how we investigate different things in geography. We will also look at the different continents of the world, breaking stereotypes and being aware of the diverse nature of each continent both physical and human features.

Why are we learning about it?

We all hold views and ideas of the different continents, particularly Africa and Asia. These ideas can sometimes be over generalised and it's important that we understand the physical and human differences.

What new KNOWLEDGE will I gain?

You'll look at how we investigate geography and carry out your own investigation around the school. You will learn about different features of Africa and Asia focusing specifically on Rwanda and the Korean peninsula.

TOPIC: What is Geography?

How does this build on the SKILLS I already have?

You will use the skills of describing location and apply them to unfamiliar settings.

What new SKILLS will I develop?

You will learn skills of carrying out fieldwork, creating hypothesis, collecting data and presenting it in an appropriate way and then coming to conclusions based on it.

How does this build on the KNOWLEDGE I already have?

You will use your knowledge of physical and human features to categorise the different features in Africa and Asia.
